First Jerusalem Mayor Is In U.S. To Promote 3,000th Birthday Of His City

Shlomo Z. Shragai, the first elected Israeli Mayor of Jerusalem, received on his arrival at the New York International Airport, Idlewild, Queens, an ovation from representatives of the city and from delegates of rabbinic and Jewish communal organizations.

The white-bearded, 52-year-old Israel official, who was accompanied by his wife, Miriam, was welcomed by Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Murphy, who, speaking in Hebrew, said: "The people of New York City welcome Your Honor with greetings of peace."

In acknowledgment, Mayor Shragai remarked with a smile that "This is the first time I ever heard an Irishman speak Hebrew, and I understood every world of it." Justice Murphy later explained he had given considerable time to mastering the greeting.

The visiting Mayor said there was little friction in Jerusalem because of the partitioning, pointing out that about 154,000 Jews lived in the new section, of which he was Mayor, and 28,000 to 30,000 in the old quarter.

"The population of the new city," he said, "is fully conscious of its human undertaking to the international community regarding the [illegible] of free access to Christian [illegible] to the old city, and thousands of such pilgrims have crossed [illegible] in security and good-will in the last few years. There is [illegible] any friction between the [illegible] of the old and new [illegible] Jerusalem."

Mayor Shragai said civil authorities [illegible] regularly to consider [illegible] affecting the populations [illegible]. He expressed the [illegible] access will soon be [illegible] the Government of [illegible] Jewish pilgrims to the [illegible] Wall and that the way to [illegible] Mountain will also be open."

After the Mayor was presented with New York City's Medal of Honor by the Mayor of New York. Others who participated in the greeting at the airport included Yosef Nevo, senior Israeli consul in New York, and officials of Hapoel Hamizrachi, the Religious Labor Zionist party in Israel, of which Mayor Shragai is a member.

The Mayor, born in Poland, has lived in Palestine since 1928, and, before being elected Mayor of Jerusalem in 1951 was a member of the executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine. He and Mrs. Shragai have four children—three sons, all of whom are in the Israeli Army, and a thirteen-year-old daughter at school in Jerusalem.

In press conferences at the airport and the hotel, during which his words were translated by interpreters from Hebrew to English, Mayor Shragai said he came to the United States to help promote the celebration of the 3,000th anniversary, to assist the United Jewish Appeal and to meet with his political confreres, the American branch of Hapoel Hamizrachi.

Discussing Israel's economics, Mayor Shragai expressed confidence that the country's recently promulgated new economic policy would soon ease the burden of austerity under which Israelis live. Israel, he said, can support its own people but requires American assistance through the United Jewish Appeal for the care of newcomers. Israel is committed unreservedly to the promotion of a democratic state which will insure freedom for all its people, and looks on the United States with admiration and friendship, he said.

In inviting Jews as well as non-Jews to Israel for the 3,000th anniversary, Mayor Shragai noted that Jerusalem is a spiritual and moral capital for the entire world as well as a political capital of Israel. The Israeli Government has designated a four-member committee, he said, to make arrangements to accommodate the expected influx of visitors.

While in the United States Mayor Shragai will visit cities in the eastern half of the country.

Mayor Shragai is of medium height with slightly graying hair and a [illegible] beard. At the airport he wore a wide black hat and long black overcoat, which is the usual garb of the Orthodox group. Under his hat he wore a black yarmelke, or skullcap, which remained on his head while he was indoors.

His influence in Israel extends far beyond his own city of Jerusalem, since he is a member of the executive of Hapoel Hamizrachi, which is part of the coalition on which Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's government is founded. Although not a rabbi, he is noted

JEWS TO MEET GERMANS SOON, SEEK SWIFT PAYMENT

Israel will press for swift payment of German reparations during the next four, five or six years at the reparations and restitution conference with West Germany in Brussels sometime in March, Dr. Nahum Goldmann said in Jerusalem.

"For Israel the important thing is that payment be made during the critical period of massive immigration and economic expansion," he said in an interview with the New York Times. He said Israel could not accept as a precedent the period of twenty years or more that the Western Allies had recognized for payment of the occupation costs by Germany.

The fact that the conference is now definitely scheduled means that the Israeli Government has been convinced by a preliminary exploratory contact between Dr. Goldmann and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that West Germany will pay. Otherwise the Government, which has had to face the stiff opposition of Israelis who do not want any kind of direct contacts with the Germans, would not have made the final decision to begin the talks.

Dr. Goldmann explained that delegates of the German Federal Government would meet two Jewish delegations in Brussels — one representing the Israeli Government and the other, the Conference on Jewish Material Claims against Germany. The Israel Government will negotiate on Israel's $1,000,000,000 reparations claim against Western Germany that Dr. Adenauer accepted in writing on December 8 as a basis for discussions.

Israel has announced a claim of an additional $500,000 against Eastern Germany, but there has been no acknowledgment of any kind from the Communist regime in Berlin.

The delegates of the World Conference of Jewish Organizations will at the same time seek restitution and indemnification for individual Jewish claimants and for heirless Jewish property.

Dr. Goldmann had had special police protection since he arrived because Menachem Begin, head of the extreme right-wing Herut party, had threatened to use violence to prevent direct negotiations with Germany. Dr. Goldmann denied, however, that he had received any threatening letters or had been otherwise molested.

The presidium of the World Conference of Jewish Organizations, will decide who will be its representatives at the negotiations. The Israeli Government delegation will be headed by Dr. Giora Josefsthal, director of the Jewish Agency's absorption department, and Dr. F. E. Shinar of the Foreign Ministry; and the German delegation by Prof. Frank Boehm of Frankfurt University. After the opening meeting the details will be worked out by teams of Jewish and German experts.

Ask U.S. Supreme Court To Hear Case Of Orthodox Employee

The case of an Orthodox Jewish resident of Youngstown, Ohio, who was denied unemployment compensation when she refused to accept a position requiring her to work on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, was carried to the United States Supreme Court. Complainant in the case is Mary Jane Heisler, who was denied unemployment benefits on November 13, 1948, after she refused to investigate potential employment at St. Elizabeth Hospital, of Youngstown, Ohio, when told that the job would require working on the Sabbath.

Leo Pfeffer, counsel for the Youngstown Jewish Council and the American Jewish Congress, filed the appeal with the highest federal court from a decision by the Ohio Supreme Court which affirmed a ruling of the State Board of Review of Unemployment Compensation. The appeal was filed following an order of Ohio Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt allowing the action.

In the brief filed with the U.S. Supreme Court, Mr. Pfeffer argued that the Ohio decision violates Amendment 1 of the U.S. Constitution, which says that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof," and Amendment 14 of the U.S. Constitution that ". . . no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the U.S. . . ." He further charged that the decision violates the Ohio State [illegible] clause, [illegible] Ohio Supreme Court [illegible] Heisler's religious [illegible] Sabbath.

In the brief, Mr. Pfeffer pointed out that the Ohio Supreme Court had ruled in Pennsylvania, last year, when the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Board of Review reversed itself and granted unemployment benefits to the complainant after the American Jewish Congress appealed to the Pennsylvania State Court. The brief also quotes an editorial in the Christian Century, leading Protestant magazine in the country, which endorsed the position taken by the American Jewish Congress in the Pennsylvania case. "It should not . . . be left to this Jewish organization to fight alone," the Christian Century wrote. "Every church which claims to stand for religious liberty and the right of conscience should associate itself with the appeal. For as the brief submitted by the Jewish Congress points out, the rule the Pennsylvania State Board has laid down would apply quite as much against any Christian who refused to take a job requiring work on Sundays."

Twenty-five major national and local Jewish organizations protested against the action of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on the Sabbath Law in recommending "immediate relief for sports promoters" from the operation of the Sunday Law but failing to propose similar relief for persons "who abide by their deeply held religious convictions."

One-Third Of Free Loan Aid Went To Fellow-Jews

Women Of Large Sums

Mrs. Golda Myerson, Israel's Minister of Labor, said her nation's economic difficulties were the result of a "self-imposed transition period of hardship" in order to achieve a highly industrial and productive framework within the next few years. At the same time she warned that the current lack of foreign exchange posed a grave threat to the attainment of economic independence.

The Israeli official, in Washington to represent Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, opened a two-day emergency conference at the Israel Embassy there, called by Abba S. Eban, Israel's Ambassador to the United States. The conference was specifically designed to acquaint American Jews with the fledgling state's economic situation as well as to survey the role that the $500,000,000 Israel bond issue will play in the building of Israel's economy.

Mrs. Myerson told several hundred Jewish communal leaders that Israel's serious economic conditions stemmed from the doubling of her population to 1,400,000 through the immigration of "impoverished and persecuted refugees." "These immigrants would not be alive today if they did not come to Israel," she said. "We, on the other hand, could not move forward in our economic development without the addition of this population which has quickly demonstrated its skill and courage to help build the country."

Henry Morgenthau Jr., chairman of the board of governors of the $500,000,000 Israel bond issue, pointed to "the miracles of production" that have been performed in Israel, asserting that "these victories on the economic battlefront have strengthened our belief that economic crisis and hardship in Israel are about to give way to a bright and productive future."

Mrs. Myerson mentioned the discovery of phosphate in the Negeb, peat in the Lake Hulch region, and the resumption of Dead Sea potash extraction. "Israel now stands on the threshold of an industrial revolution which must force the world to revise its concept of Israel as a poor country," she said.

"These major developments will pave the road to economic independence only if we receive quickly the investment dollars to provide us with the necessary machinery and transportation facilities. At present we need large sums of foreign currency for the import of consumer goods and food."

Israel's fiscal audit for 1951. He revealed that free loans of $720,865 had been made last year to 8,040 persons, of whom about one-third were not of the Jewish faith.

"We can estimate only this fast," Mr. Durst said, "because no borrower is asked what his faith is. As a matter of fact, in its sixty years of operation the society has never investigated a single borrower. We ask him only three questions: his name, address and occupation."

Loans of $5 to $500 are available. As a requirement to safeguard the society's funds, the borrower of more than $100 must have two endorsers from metropolitan New York area who are in business, a profession or otherwise are financially responsible. For loans of $100 or less the society requires only one endorser.

Mr. Durst said a borrower's application "is treated with strict confidence, and we make no inquiry as to why he needs to borrow funds or what he intends to do with the money." The average loan last year, he said, was $237; in the thirties it was $50. Last year's number of borrowers represented an increase over that of the previous six years. "The total amount borrowed last year is almost double that of 1944 —a pretty good indication of our inflationary spiral and what the dollar will buy today," he said.

He pointed out that most requests for free loans came from "white collar and civil service workers, pensioners and others on a fixed income who find themselves caught in the pinch of rising prices." Noting that one-third of last year's requests were for $50, he said that "seems to be a conventional sum asked for by housewives who find themselves behind a month's rent or need new clothes for a child's graduation or are faced with an unexpected medical bill or some such emergency."

Mr. Durst asserted that "last year's record is not above our average percentage of losses—which is less than one-quarter of 1 per cent of the total free loans." He added that "this equalled or bettered the loss record of most commercial banks." Repeating that the society was forced to apply to endorsers for repayment in less than 2 per cent of its cases, he stressed that "a man's good faith is still the best collateral in the world."

Among those who helped the society to embark on a large scale were the late Felix Warburg, Mortimer L. Schiff, Jacob H. Schiff and Adolph Lewisohn. The society, which has offices at 106 Second Avenue, is planning a sixtieth anniversary celebration with its annual meeting in April.

It is said that one person in every 840 in Canada is blind but, it is believed, the sight of 30 per cent of these could have been saved by medical treatment and, in many cases, could still be restored by proper treatment. Regular examinations by a medical eye doctor can discover eye troubles in their earliest stages when chances of cure are most sure.

Tom Gard's Note Book

Autumn always brings a number of tasks to the home owner, especially if he is a gardener. A few days ago I noticed such a man preparing for winter. He had already constructed a reel for his garden hose, impressing upon me the need to drain it after use, then to store it dry in order to prevent the rubber from rotting. Well, his idea is worth copying.

HAMPERS FOR CLOTHES

His wife was just as handy, in fact she had converted a bushel basket into a clothes-basket by enamelling the outside white, and the inside lined with colourful chintz. This seemed to be the envy of her neighbours.

DOOR-MAT FROM BOTTLE TOPS

There was a youngster in the home, the kind that thoughtlessly ran in after school without wiping his feet. Dad soon corrected this by collecting bottle tops, then in a few minutes he made a door-mat by nailing the tops in even rows on two pieces of pine joined with a pair of cleats. I noticed that the tops were nailed closely together.

ORANGE CRATES FOR SHELVES

This chap turned out to be quite an amateur craftsman, and he liked everything in order. He was very proud of two shelves he had constructed from orange crates, one to serve his purposes in the basement, and the second one, nicely finished, for the living room.

Accidents cost Canada more than $150 million a year. Most of these mishaps, major or minor, are preventable with care and common-sense. A great many of those incurred in the home might be averted if periodic surveys of the house, furniture and equipment were practiced and needed repairs or changes made. Better lighting in stairways and checkups on electrical equipment would prevent some of the more common falls and injuries.

Life Head Of H.U.C. Is Noted As Archaeologist

Dr. Nelson Glueck, of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, America's only seminary of Reform Judaism, is lifetime president of the institution.

During his administration, the College, which was established in 1875 by Isaac Mayer Wise, the founder of American Reform Judaism, and the Jewish Institute of Religion, which was founded by the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise in New York in 1922, were merged to form the largest and most influential rabbinical seminary in America. Several new departments have been established under his leadership.

These include the Department of Human Relations, which equips rabbinical students with the insights of the social sciences; the American Jewish Archives which collects, classifies, and preserves manuscripts and unpublished material relating to Jewish Americana, and the Graduate Interfaith Fellowship program which brings Christian clergymen, preparing for teaching and preaching careers in theological schools and churches of their faith, to the Cincinnati campus to study Judaism.

Dr. Glueck, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of the most distinguished alumni of the rabbinical seminary he heads. A rabbi and scholar, he had achieved world fame as an archaeologist before he became president of the Hebrew Union College in 1947, president of the Jewish Institute of Religion in 1948, and president of the combined institution when the two schools merged in 1950. A 1920 graduate of the University of Cincinnati, he was ordained at the Hebrew Union College in 1923, and was awarded the Henry S. Morgenthau Fellowship for graduate study.

Following ordination, he devoted five years to study abroad, four of them at the universities of Berlin, Heidelberg and Jena. He received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Jena in 1926 and passed a fifth year of study abroad at the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem. He joined the Hebrew Union College faculty in 1928 and was named Professor of Bible and Biblical Archaeology there in 1936.

Dr. Glueck served as director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem and field director of the American School of Oriental Research in Baghdad. He uncovered more than 1,000 ancient sites in Palestine and Transjordan and his discoveries revolutionized the knowledge of Bible lands in antiquity and brought new understanding of the Bible to the world. He has written several books reporting on his findings.

Dr. Glueck is a Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society of Great Britain and a member of the Palestine Oriental Society, the Archaeological Institute of America, the Explorers Club of New York, and the Cosmos Club of Washington. He is a former director and president of the American School of Oriental Research.

WORKING YOUTHS MUST GO TO NIGHT SCHOOL

The Israel Government is seeing to it that young people who go to work by day complete at least their elementary schooling at night, according to a report in the current issue of the Jewish Agency's Digest of Press and Events, just received here from Jerusalem. Some 12,000 working youths between the ages of 14 and 18 have registered for the year, in compliance with the Compulsory Education Law of 1949 which requires that working youth who have not finished their elementary education continue their studies in night classes. The number of night schools has increased from 81 to 210, more than half of which are located in immigrant villages.

Although there was no compulsory education law during the mandatory regime, illiteracy in the Jewish community was practically nil. But since 1948, the situation changed as a result of the influx of thousands of immigrants from backward countries where they were never taught to read or write. Night schools in the cities and towns are financed by local authorities, while those in the immigrant villages are financed by the Government. Up to now fifteen hours study a week covered the regular syllabus, but plans for this year also include provisions for vocational training. The highest level is maintained in Jerusalem where 80 percent of the registrants regularly attend class. Regional inspectors have been appointed to investigate cases of truancy.

The most valuable parts of vegetables are often lost in preparation and cooking. The dark outer leaves that are usually discarded are richer in vitamins than the pale inner ones and the liquids in which vegetables have been cooked or canned should be added to soups, gravies and vegetable juices to salvage the minerals and vitamins that might otherwise be thrown out.

The Idolatry Of Ideologies

Text: Exodus 32.1: "And when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down from the Mount, the people gathered themselves together under Aaron, and said unto him: 'Up, make us a god who shall go before us; for as for this man Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what is become of him!' "

Only forty days after the Israelites received the ten commandments on Mount Zion they committed a grave sin. They turned to idol worship. They who had but yesterday pledged to live by God's moral law forgot Moses and God and madly danced around a golden calf, shouting: "This is thy God, O, Israel." What happened thirty-five hundred years ago has been repeated time and again through history. People have made, and are making golden calves, false gods. These gods lead to disappointment and tragedy. Behold, the fetish we make of social position, money, and power.

Our age is guilty of the idolatry of ideologies. What is an ideology? A body of ideas formulated in an organized system of thought. Ideologies have been great motivating forces in advancing civilization and the cause of human progress. But ideologies, when made into gods, endanger human advance. When people ascribe infallibility to an ideology and make that ideology the only promise of salvation, then, indeed, that system of thought, whatever name it may bear, becomes a menace.

We can best understand the ideology of Communism when we reflect how in medieval days Holy Scripture itself was misunderstood and treated as infallible. And we need not go back to the medieval period of history. There are people in this very atomic age who worship bibliolatry, the Holy Book itself, forgetting that this Holy Writing, though divinely inspired, has within it elements that are temporary and human. Hence, the Bible suffers most often at the hands of its friends.

The bible of Communism is "Das Kapital", by Karl Marx. This volume was first published in 1867 and represents the work of an outstanding student of economics who spent years in reflection upon the economic problems of life. No one can deny that "Das Kapital" is a unique and great work, but many of its theories no longer hold water and are meaningless in our own day and generation. For example, the Communists, who worship "Das Kapital" as infallible, are in a state of confusion. They cannot understand how it is that American capitalism still endures and has not collapsed in accordance with the prophecy of Karl Marx.

Of course, there is the danger, too, on our part that we might make an idol of our present day democracy. Our democracy is far from being infallible. It is far from perfect and there is much we must do to make it a growing process toward a state of perfection. We can best meet the challenge of Communism by perfecting a democratic way of life. But let us not become orthodox in our democratic thinking for the orthodoxy of any ideology results in the closed mind and leads its adherents to become persecutors and inquisitors of those who dare to differ. Human progress, too, depends on mobility of thought and not fixity of thought. Hence, we can understand the tragedy of the Soviets at present engaging in inquisitions and in the persecution of all those who dare to differ from the orthodoxy held by the Soviets.

The present-day worship of ideologies is due to a sense of arrogance which possesses so many. If we but practice humility in declaring our opinions, whatever they may be, and realize that revelation is progressive and that God daily reveals unto man new discoveries, we would be a generation blessed with happiness most abundantly. Above all else, in the pursuit of truth, we must ever try to live by the light of reason. For so many, this important light burns very dimly and we live irrationally. Then there are cold wars which in turn may result in physical warfare and the very destruction of our civilization.

Let us, therefore, stop dancing madly around our ideologies and let us examine these lest we become idol worshippers and forget God who bids us all to live in brotherhood and in justice and in a spirit of genuine good will. Must man descend again to the beast and engage in world suicide by planning another war? We of the West and they of the East must realize that whatever ideologies we in turn uphold, these have elements of error and fallibility and above them is sovereign God, the Father of us all.

in Israel for his knowledge of the Torah and for his activity in the labor movement. While he is in accord with the labor philosophy of the Ben-Gurion government, his political views are colored by a more deeply religious tinge.

In Israel each political party sponsors and supports towns and kibbutzim, or agricultural settlements. Mayor Shragai noted that his party, which has eight members in the Knesset, or parliament, has sixty-five such agricultural settlements, sixty consumers' and producers' co-operatives and various other enterprises ranging from vocational training schools to housing developments.

During his press conference at the airport he made public a written statement he had prepared on the plane asserting that there was very little friction between Arab residents of the old city of Jerusalem and the Jews in the new city.

clared, "represents the most important single instrument in our march to economic independence," adding, "We not only have the will, but we have the capacity to repay every dollar that we borrow through the sale of Israel bonds."

References to minerals in the Bible must be regarded as "practical reporting," Mrs. Myerson said, explaining that iron ore and copper had been discovered and that experts had reported oil deposits in Israel. The Israeli Minister of Labor, describing her country's progress, pointed out that the national income, based on current prices, had risen from £250,000,000 Israeli in 1949 to £338,000,000 in 1950 and £470,000,000 in 1951.

Joshua L. Goldberg, district chaplain, the U.S., 3d Naval District, was promoted from commander to the rank of captain in the United States Navy. He received a pair of shoulder boards bearing the four-stripe insignia of his new rank, from Rear Adm. Walter S. DeLany, commandant of the 3d District. Capt. Goldberg, the first rabbi to be commissioned a Navy chaplain during World War II, has served in his present 3d Naval District post since 1949. Prior to that, he had been assistant chaplain and acting district chaplain. He is the Navy's highest ranking Jewish clergyman and the first rabbi to serve as chaplain of the 3d Naval District.

Some 6,000 wooden huts will be built in the Israeli immigrant villages. Of these, 5,000 will be imported pre-fabricated structures and the remaining 1,000 are being built. A further 4,000 units may be put up by April 1 if funds are available. The estimated cost of structural repairs resulting from the recent storms is $4,200,000. The damaged canvas huts will be replaced by wooden huts. The Ministry of Social Welfare is arranging to place 7,000 children in institutions under the Ministry's supervision. The original plan called for accommodations for only 4,200, but this substantial increase has been found necessary owing to the damage caused by the floods.
